Lesson 10. The Emperor's new clothes

1. 🎧 Listen, read and answer: What are the Emperor's ['emp(ə)rəz] new clothes?

This is a story of an Emperor who likes new clothes very much. One day two cheats¹ come to the palace². They say they can make clothes from magic cloth³ for the Emperor.

² palace ['pæləs] – палац

³ magic cloth ['mædʒɪk 'klɒθ] – чароўная тканіна

“Magic? Why is the cloth magic?” asks the Emperor.

“It’s magic because stupid people¹ can’t see it,” says the short cheat. “To stupid people our cloth is invisible²,” says the tall cheat.

“Great!” says the Emperor. “Now I’ll know³ who is stupid in my palace,” he thinks⁴.

“It’s not cheap,” says the short cheat. “It’s very expensive!” says the tall cheat.

“It’s OK. I’m an Emperor and I can buy⁵ it,” says the Emperor.

The cheats work days and nights. First they make the cloth. Then they make the clothes.

Finally [ˈfain(ə)li], all is finished, and the cheats help the Emperor to put the clothes on⁶ – first the invisible trousers, then the invisible shirt and the invisible coat, then the invisible socks and shoes. And finally goes the invisible hat. The Emperor looks into the mirror but he can’t see the clothes. He looks again but the cloth is invisible.

“Oh, no!” he thinks. “Now people will think that I’m stupid and that I can’t be an Emperor.”

² invisible [ɪnˈvɪzəb(ə)l] – нябачны

³ I’ll know ... – я даведаюся ...

⁴ thinks – думае

⁵ buy [baɪ] – купіць

⁶ put on – надзяваць

And then he thinks, “No! I’m clever!” And he says, “Beautiful! I like the cloth, and the trousers, and the coat!” The ministers say that they like the Emperor’s new clothes very much.

The Emperor is happy. The ministers are happy. And the cheats are very happy.

The Emperor puts on his favourite purple gloves and walks into the city. He walks slowly with his head up. People clap their hands, and shout “Hooray!”

The Emperor looks at the people on the left, and he looks at the people on the right, and he thinks, “It’s OK. I’m the only fool¹ in my city but only² I know that.”

And then a little boy looks at the Emperor and says, “Look! He’s got no clothes on!”

“Sorry,” says the boy’s father. “He’s a stupid boy. Your clothes are beautiful.”

But the people look at the little boy. Then they look at the Emperor. And then they start talking quietly.

² only – толькі

“What fools!” thinks the Emperor. “Fools can’t see my clothes.” And slowly with his head up he walks wearing only a pair of purple gloves.

(after Hans Christian Andersen)
